part. Later researches disclosed that this manuscript, now in the Bibliothèque nationale, of Paris, had been part of Cardinal Mazarin's library, from which it had passed into that of the King of France in 1668. The history is not complete, and the end seems to be only a collection of notes extensive and authentic history of Philip II, and it has a special interest as being the record of a Manuscript of the history of the city of Mexico, written by the author, who was a member of the first government of the Republic, and who was also a member of the Congress of the United States. The manuscript is written in Spanish and is in the handwriting of the author. It is a very valuable document, as it contains many details of the early history of the city of Mexico, and of the early government of the Republic. The manuscript is now in the possession of the Library of Congress, and is one of the most important documents in the collection.
